

Maritime DTU
Center for Maritime Activities

Prediction of response levels ahead of current time using machine learning

Type of project: MSc

Project description

Many operational scenarios (helicopter landings, crane deployments, DP system updating, etc.) in ship operations benefit from the availability of state predictions, say, forecasting of response levels ahead of current time. In this project, phase-resolved reconstruction of time series will be studied together with response level prediction.

Contact persons

Ulrik Dam Nielsen
DTU Construct
udni@dtu.dk